1st Outsourced Probe Data Symposium

January 15th, 2015

College Park, MD

The National Transportation Center at Maryland (NTC @ Maryland) and the Center for Advanced Transportation Technology (CATT) invite you to a symposium to discuss emerging probe data products and applications of private sector data in planning, operations, and performance management. The first objective is to provide a venue for industry to discuss currently available data products in the areas of speed, travel time, O-D, freight, emissions, and volume. The second objective is to have a forum of leading state executives and managers discussing the critical data needs in their organizations, so that industry can hear and respond.
